

Shouyang Wang

Chinese Academy of Sciences

Shouyang Wang is a distinguished professor of Chinese Academy of Science (CAS) and the founding director of the Center for Forecasting Science, CAS. He is a fellow of The Third World Academy of Sciences and an academician of The International Academy for Systems and Cybernetic Sciences. He is/was the president of China Systems Engineering Society, the president of International Society of Knowledge and Systems Sciences, a vice president of International Society of Global Optimization, a vice president of International Academy for Systems and Cybernetic Sciences, and an executive board member of The International Institute of Forecasters. He is/was the editor in chief or an area editor of 12 journals including Energy Economics and China Journal of Econometrics. He has published 46 monographs (including 21 monographs by Springer and Taylor & Francis in English) and published more than 500 papers in leading journals, including Science, Nature, Journal of Economic Theory, International Economic Review, Journal of Econometrics, and International Journal of Forecasting.